Professor Nori Katagiri

Office: McGannon 152

Email: nori.katagiri@slu.edu

Phone: 977-3044

Course Description: This course consists of an approved internship in an agency with the conduct of foreign relations or the national, regional, and local impact of international affairs. Most students keep journals and write an essay relating their experiences. There are no scheduled class meetings, but students are encouraged to meet with the course instructor to discuss any outstanding issues whenever they arise.

Learning Objectives: Students will:

- Develop strategies to work with others at the site
- Apply knowledge from previous courses to work in an international or intercultural environment
- Describe substantive international issues in the site / office's field
- Demonstrate time-management skills and an ability to prioritize
- Recommend changes that would improve the work of the host organization

Registration: The College of Arts and Sciences requires completion of a Learning Contract and signing of a release before approving registration.

Finding a Site: Interns are responsible for finding a site and making arrangements with it. Students should make it clear that this is for college credit and should provide acquaintance with a variety of tasks and activities. Though several sites may be contacted, interns should endeavor to engage only one in serious arrangements. The internship site and students must agree on a work schedule that maximizes the opportunity to benefit both the office and the intern.

Conduct: The student represents the University and the internship program in a professional manner. They should dress and act appropriately for their specific site. They need to keep the site supervisor notified of work schedule changes. They must practice the highest ethical standards appropriate to SLU and the site organization.

Grades: Students will be evaluated based on the following categories:

Midterm reflection (30%): The students must submit a ten-page midterm reflection paper by noon, March 12, 2021, Friday. It should describe the students' expectations for the internship and actual tasks, issues they faced and people they encountered and worked together, and reflections on the assignment. They must include the number of hours completed for the time period and the total number of hours. The paper must be 10 pages, using Times New Roman, 11 Font, and a standard 1-inch margin. Papers that fail to conform to this requirement will be penalized. To get full credit, students must submit the paper electronically to the instructor by the deadline. Late papers will result in reduction in grade. If they fail to submit three days past the deadline, they will receive the grade of F for the assignment.

Final paper (40%): The final written assignment is a paper on a topic determined by the student after discussion with the site supervisor and instructor. To reflect the academic dimensions of the internship experience, students will be required to read academic materials related to the internship content and write about them in this paper. To get full credit, the students must submit the paper electronically to the instructor by noon, May 14, 2021, Friday. The paper must be 10 pages, not including notes and bibliography, and students must use Times New Roman, 11 Font, and a standard 1-inch margin. Papers that fail to conform to this requirement will be penalized. To get full credit, students must submit the paper electronically to the instructor by the deadline. Late papers will result in reduction in grade. If they fail to submit three days past the deadline, they will receive the grade of F for the assignment.

Site supervisor's evaluation (30%): The students must submit to the instructor two 2-page evaluations from the site supervisor. The first report (15%) is due on the same day as the midterm reflection, and the other (15%) is due on the same day as the final paper.
