

Reinert Center Online

Where to Find Us Online and Why You Should Bother

A Basic Overview

Want to know who we are and what we're about? There's a page for that. Here's the link.

Want to see what kinds of programming and services we offer? Here's Programs and here's Services.

Want to skip all the other stuff and just find out what events are coming up on the Center's schedule? There's a page for that, too! Here's the link.

DID YOU KNOW?

You can find out what's happening in the Reinert Center through our:

- Website
- Blog: The Notebook
- Twitter feed

Speaking of blogs...

What is The Notebook?

the Notebook
*A weekly blog presented by the Reinert Center
at Saint Louis University*

The Notebook is a bi-weekly blog that provides perspectives on pedagogy, teaching with technology, instructional development, and information about our programs, services, and resources, and much more.

Contribute

We invite SLU faculty to contribute blog posts. If you would like to write for The Notebook, please review our style and submission guide, or read more about the mission of The Notebook in the About page, then contact Mary Cook in the Center.

What Can I Do With It?

Subscribe and Read

When you subscribe to our blog, it means that new content will be delivered to your inbox each time we post. You can set this up in one of two ways.

1

For the do-it-yourself type, you can subscribe from the blog homepage. On the top menu, click "Subscribe." You will be directed to an online form. Fill in your information, and then click the "Subscribe" button.

2

For those of you who would like our regular posts to appear in your inbox as if by magic, feel free to send an email and request to be subscribed to the blog. We are happy to make that happen for you.
