

3RD ANNUAL EDUCATION FOR FLOURISHING CONFERENCE SUPPORTING STUDENT AND EDUCATOR WELLBEING

Saturday, April 29th, 2023 (8:30 AM - 3:30 PM)

Dr. Karen I. Hall

Assistant Professor, Saint Louis
University and Former School
Superintendent

"Any education is, in its forms and methods, an outgrowth of the needs of the society in which it exists."

- Dewey

Matthew T. Lee

Director, Flourishing Network
Human Flourishing Program
Harvard University

Research suggests that 1 in 3 high school students experience a sense of hopelessness and loneliness. At the same time, the number of educators experiencing burnout is increasing. A substantial paradigm shift is needed to address the ensuing well-being crisis in education. Once centers for content learning, schools will equally need to become centers that promote individual and community flourishing.

Topics :

- Integrating Flourishing in School Curricula & Practices
- Human Flourishing For All
- Educator Wellbeing and Flourishing

Join an interdisciplinary group of educators, practitioners, researchers, and thought-leaders to exchange ideas on how to promote and support flourishing in schools and communities. Listen and interact with speakers and panelists to collaborate, network, and create action plans.
